in submitting the plan, the president says:

'Nothing drastic is recommended as to the bureaus or other agencies by means of which the purely business affairs of the navy department are now administered. The plan outlined does not imply any greater expenditure of money than at present. It provides merely that the money should be spent wisely instead of as at present spending it so that a certain proportion is wasted in useless work."

To supplement and finish the work of this commission, the president says, another commission must eventually be first real inaugural procession. Allan Farr, Actor, Now in New Role Allan Farr, late of the "Flower of the; Ranch" company and the Willard Mack company, arrived in Salt Lake yesterday morning to play a return engagement. After the travel from Larande, Wyc., however, Mr. Farr was rather fatigued and could only go through a reading rehearsal, with Judge Bowman as the stage director.

The greatest spectacular display made up to that time was at the inauguration of President Grant. It was practically purely a military demonstration, and although magnificent in all of its features, was marred to an extent by the refusal of his predecessor to ride with Grant to the capitol in the
